2. Now reduce that list of 10 down to 6 by identifying which of the values are MOST important to you.

3. What story can you tell about your leadership practice that you feel embodies or demonstrates these values?

4. Over the next few weeks, watch for opportunities to demonstrate the values you have chosen. Also reflect on other leadership moments where perhaps you demonstrated other leadership values, or you did not stay true to the values that you identified. Note your reflections and observations below:

5. Now that you have had an opportunity to reflect on your values in practice, which of the values in your list are practiced (you already use them as a basis for your leadership actions and decisions on a regular basis), and which ones of them are aspired (you don't currently use them but you want to start using and demonstrating them as part of your leadership practice)?

6. Identify in the table below your final five or six core leadership values. Print this table off and post it somewhere it can be a permanent and frequent reminder of your core leadership values.
